INDIANA'S STORYTELLER: CONNECTING PEOPLE TO THE PAST

WORKSHOPS

Collection Preservation

Tuesday, Sept. 15, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

At the Wabash and Erie Canal Interpretive Center, Delphi

Speaker: Ramona Duncan-Huse

Cost: $105 per person, $200 for two (same organization), $295 for three (same organization)

Register by Sept. 1.

Librarians can earn 4 LEU credits for this workshop.

Learn how to preserve your historical collections and avoid harm in a collection environment. The discussion will focus on current issues in preservation such as storage and environmental issues, preservation efforts and conservation techniques. You will:

- Understand essential issues in preserving historical collections
- Recognize different types of material and how the techniques to preserve them vary
- Learn how to humidify, surface clean and provide housings for paper materials
- Obtain answers to the most perplexing problems about your institution's collections based on a pre-workshop survey

The registration fee covers the cost of tools, which participants will keep.

Stewarding Historic Structures

Instructor: Tommy Kleckner, HLF

Cost: $20, $18 IHS or HLF members, $16 Local History Partners (lunch included)

Register by Oct. 5

What should you do if your historic building's roof starts to leak, or you notice sawdust piles in your basement? Find the answers in this workshop led by Historic Landmarks Foundation of Indiana experts and by exploring the host site and other sites in the area with typical challenges. You will learn to identify problems and where to go for solutions. The workshop will also cover:

- Restoration versus preservation
- Historic building materials and their basic care
- Working with contractors
- Prioritizing and planning for preservation projects
- Major areas of concern, including windows, floors and HVAC systems

Who should attend? Board members or directors of organizations housed in – or considering accepting the donation of – a historic structure. Space is limited, so please send in your registration early.
