HISTORICAL SKETCH

Construction of covered wooden bridges throughout the state began in the early 1830s with the building of state roads. Covered bridge construction continued in Indiana until the early part of the 20th century. Estimates suggest that Indiana may have had approximately 400 to 500 covered bridges.

By the late 1920s Indiana's wooden covered bridges were disappearing at an accelerated rate. In response to this, the Executive Committee of the Indiana Historical Society appointed a committee to investigate, document, and promote the preservation of Indiana's remaining covered bridges. The Covered Timber Bridge Committee was established in March of 1931 and began to identify the remaining covered bridges in Indiana at that time. The committee sent out survey forms to county surveyors and sought donations of covered bridge photographs and information from the public. These collected statistics, histories and photographs on Indiana's bridges were maintained in comprehensive files and available for researchers in the William Henry Smith Library at the Indiana Historical Society.

With Robert B. Yule as its first chair, the group first reported on 194 remaining covered timber bridges in the February 1937 Indiana History Bulletin. A revision published in February 1938, and again in the Feb. 1941 stated that there were 202 covered bridges in existence in Indiana. In December, 1937 Yule and Richard C. Smith of the William Henry Smith Memorial Library published a pamphlet, Covered Bridges of Indiana listing the existing bridges and designating the bridge sites on the Indiana Highway Survey Commission county road maps.

Robert Burns Yule was born in 1898 in Brookings, South Dakota. He received his BSCE from South Dakota State University and earned the Distinguished Engineer award from that university. Early in the 1930's, while he was chairman of the Indiana State Highway Survey Commission, Yule began efforts to make the public aware of the historic value of the covered wooden bridges in Indiana. Yule's work with the Covered Timber Bridge Committee documents his pioneering efforts of photographing, documenting, and mapping of the bridges that existed in the 1930's. Persons seeking specifics of that mapping should look in the publication by Robert B. Yule and Richard C. Smith, Covered Bridges of Indiana.

In the 1960s the Committee ended its work of keeping statistics, compiling bridge histories, maintaining comprehensive files, and producing annual reports. Library staff continued to collect materials and respond to reference questions, maintaining those files with this collection. In 1963 the Indiana Covered Bridge Society was organized and continued the work begun by the Committee to document, preserve, and protect Indiana's covered bridge heritage.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection includes research materials collected by the Covered Timber Bridge Committee from various sources: The National Society for the Preservation of Covered Bridges; The Indiana Covered Bridge Society; the Indiana Historical Bureau; Caroline Dunn; Robert B. Yule and Eugene R. Bock of the Committee to Preserve Covered Bridges; George E. Gould, President of the Indiana Covered Bridge Society; member of the National Association for the Preservation of Covered Bridges at Fort Wayne, Indiana L.C. Yapp; and countless interested individuals.

The genesis of the collection contains photographs of Indiana covered timber bridges made by Robert B. Yule between 1930 and 1939. He numbered each photograph on the front and identified the bridge names, codes, counties, waterways, roads, locations, and dates.

The following photographers are featured in the collection: George Aten, Eugene Bock, Melvin L. Davies, Carl Demaree, Denzil Doggett, Benjamin W. Douglas, Frank M. Hohenberger, Delbert Kay, Walter H. Kiser, Claude Lomax, Floyd Mitchell, Richard Simons, Leon C. Yapp, and Robert B. Yule.

Descriptions about bridge construction types and the persons responsible for developing different kinds of trusses are included.

Series 1: Covered Bridge Committee survey forms and correspondence are arranged by county. Survey forms were sent to County Surveyors requesting information about covered bridges in each county. In most cases there is a returned information sheet about each standing bridge.

Series 2: Covered Bridge Committee Correspondence, in chronological order.
