HISTORICAL SKETCH

The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (NSDAR) was organized October 11, 1890, in Washington, D.C. The group formed after the Sons of the American Revolution denied membership to interested women. Caroline Scott Harrison, wife of then-United States President Benjamin Harrison, was asked to serve as the NSDAR's first President General.

The General Arthur St. Clair Chapter of the NSDAR was organized on February 7, 1903 in Indianapolis. The St. Clair chapter was the fifteenth Indiana chapter, and the founder and first regent of the chapter was Eliza Gordon Browning. At its inception, membership was limited to fifty-five. The Chapter's early efforts included fund-raising events, entertainment, and meetings. Other than fund-raising, the Club was concerned with Indiana history and patriotism.
