BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Herbert Oran Henley was born June 14, 1873. His parents were Reuben (b. 1846) and Rachel Henley, farmers living in Rush County, Indiana. They had four children Herbert Oran, Sarah L., Lillian R., and Harry G. Henley. According to the 1900 census records Oran was a farmer and still living at home with his parents and siblings. He was taking photographs at this time and the earliest confirmed date for an image is 1902 although some images could be earlier.

By 1910 he was an electrician at the electric light company in Carthage. He was married to Jessie K. Henley (1874–1927) and they had a son Herbert K. Henley born in 1908. His 1918 Draft Registration shows they were living in Greenfield and he was employed as an electrician there. By 1920 he was still an electrician and married to Jessie but their son Herbert was not listed with the family in the census. Jessie died in 1927 and the 1930 census shows Orin working as a carpenter at a lumber company and living with his widowed mother and younger sister Lillian. The 1940 census shows him employed as a photographer. He had remarried and he and his wife Pearl worked together in his photography studio. His sister Lillian was also living with them. Henley died February 8, 1964 and is buried in Riverside Cemetery in Carthage.

Carthage is located on the Big Blue River in Rush County, Indiana. It was settled by Quakers from North Carolina in the early 1830s and the town was named for their previous home.

The Henley name is prominent in the Carthage area of Rush County. One notable Henley found in the collection is Micajah C. Henley, the “roller skate king.” He did not invent the roller skate but developed a ball-bearing skate wheel and a toe clamp fastened with a key. He patented his Chicago Skate in 1884, three years after he opened his factory in Richmond, Indiana. The Henley skates were made in Richmond until WWII.

The following Henley names were found written on the glass plates or envelopes and boxes where the plates were stored:

Benton Henley, Grant Henley, Linnie Henley [Lillian Henley, Oran’s sister], Micajah Henley, R.B. Henley [Ruben B. Henley, Oran’s father], R.Y. Henley [Rachel Y. Henley, Oran’s mother], R.H. Henley, and Great Grandfather and Grandmother Henley.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The donor's family purchased a building from Oran Henley and the glass plates and photographs were found in the building. The negatives were stored in their original boxes but were in no particular order. Processors sorted through the negatives and found images of people and events that were taken at the same time and location and put them together. The negatives are numbered and arranged into six series according to their size. Henley wrote captions and names on some of the negatives and these are transcribed in quotation marks with the processor's descriptive comments in square brackets.

Most of the images appear to be of Henley's wife and son, family and friends, and neighbors. Many people appear again and again in the images in warm family gatherings. Henley also photographed many places in and around Carthage, notably churches, schools, farms, mills, stores, bridges, Main Street, the train depot, and a train wreck.

Series 1: Postcards and Printed materials; the photographic postcards show events at the Carthage Centennial celebration in 1934. According to the Carthage Centennial pamphlet, Henley was the official photographer for the event. There are other postcard images of people and places in Carthage; many date from the 1930s and others are prints made from Henley's older glass plates. Examples of these are the "Twins" ear of corn and the boy sitting in the REO automobile.

Series 2: 4x5 Glass Plates; there are 7 boxes of 4x5 negatives of family, farms, and events. Some images are identified by the photographer.

Series 3: 5x7 Glass Plates; There are 19 boxes of 5x7 negatives. Henley numbered a few of these negatives. The processor put them in numerical order. Henley also wrote comments and names on some of the negatives.

Series 4: 7x9 Glass Plates; There are 2 boxes of 7x9 glass plates with views of people making maple syrup, family groups, and what may be Henley with an electric generator.

Series 5: 8x10 Glass Plates; There are 6 boxes of 8x10 glass plates with views of a mill, Carthage stores, post office, and drug store, several views of electric generators, "Cherry Time" with women preparing cherries, and large family group portraits.

Series 6: 4x5 Acetate Negatives; There are 2 boxes of film negatives showing two couples on vacation in Cedar Point, Florida in 1932, and a portrait of a bride and groom.
