COLLECTION INFORMATION

VOLUME OF COLLECTION: 1 OVA box of photographs, 1 OVB box of photographs

COLLECTION DATES: Ca. 1901–1929

PROVENANCE: Dorothy Neuman, Cincinnati, Ohio, June 1986
HISTORICAL SKETCH

An ordinance in November 1859 established the Indianapolis Fire Department, with full-time firemen paid $300 per year. Men required to only attend fires received $25 per year. In 1894 firemen were on call seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day, but were permitted to sleep at home one night per week. Holidays consisted of one full week, with pay. By 1909 the department employed 264 men. Equipment included twelve fire engines, twenty-seven hose-reel wagons, four chemical engines, ten hook-and-ladder companies, and 121 horses.

A shift from horses to motor vehicles began in 1908 with the purchase of a Marion roadster for the fire chief. In 1921 the department became fully motorized, but it retained a small number of horses until 1928.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection contains twenty-four photographs of Indianapolis fire stations and their crews. Twenty images show firefighters posing in front of firehouses and equipment, ca. 1901–ca. 1911. Most firefighters are identified on the verso and recto of the images. Three of the OVB photographs were identified by their Bass number. Other photographs, likely from the 1920s, show firefighters posed on a truck outside Firehouse 13, and members of Hose and Ladder Company No. 3 and Hose Company No. 18 (Hook and Ladder No. 5). The collection also includes a scene from the 1929 Freed Radio Popularity Contest Banquet. The banquet honored Indianapolis fireman Clarence Taylor and policeman Red Haugh. Kirkpatrick of Indianapolis made this photograph.

The processor assigned approximate dates to the photographs by determining the year or years in which all or most identified individuals in a particular crew worked as firefighters. This was achieved by locating the names of those individuals in city directories and noting their occupations as listed in a given year. If all or most members of the crew worked as firefighters that year, the processor assigned that date to the photograph.

Not all individuals in the photographs are identified. The folder contents provide the firehouses and names of individuals who are identified in the photographs. The list shows the spellings of firemen’s names, as annotated on the photographs. Variant spellings of those names, as drawn from Polk’s Indianapolis Directory, are in brackets [ ]. A single individual may be identified by different names on the front and back of a photograph. Names separated by a semi-colon (e.g., P. Hartne; Peter Hartout) refer to such individuals.
