HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

James Whitcomb Riley (1849-1916), "The Hoosier Poet", was born in Greenfield, Indiana, the third child of attorney Reuben A. Riley and Elizabeth (Marine) Riley. Riley left school at the age of sixteen and started reading law in his father's office. After working for several newspapers in central Indiana, during which time he had his first poem published in 1870, Riley accepted a position with the Indianapolis Journal in 1877. While with the Journal, Riley covered routine assignments and wrote poetry in his spare time. Riley had his first poems in book form, "The Old Swimmin' Hole" and "Leven More Poems," published in 1883 under the name Benj. F. Johnson of Boone. After his initial success, he signed a contract with Merrill, Meigs and Co.--later Bowen-Merrill and finally Bobbs-Merrill. In addition to writing popularity, Riley was in demand on the lecture circuit, and he spent a significant portion of his time traveling across the country reading his poetry.

Riley established residence in Indianapolis in 1893 and rented rooms from attorney Charles L. Holstein at 528 Lockerbie Street, where he lived the rest of his life. He was also rather helpless in practical matters such as finances and keeping schedules, and because he never married, he relied on friends and relatives to take care of managing his life. Marcus Dickey acted as somewhat of his manager and he lived with Henry Eitel, an Indianapolis banker, for ten years. Eitel later married Riley's sister.

Although many traditional literary critics found Riley's dialectic style of poetry distasteful, he was immensely popular with common people and children. Riley's literary honors included several honorary degrees, membership in the American Academy of Arts & Letters, and in 1912, he became the first poet to be honored with a gold medal from the National Institute of Arts and Letters. In 1911, school children across the country organized a birthday celebration in his honor that evolved into an annual event known as Riley Day.

Edmund H. Eitel ([1887]-1960) was the son of Henry and Elva Riley Eitel and the nephew of James Whitcomb Riley. He was the subject of one of Riley's poems entitled "The Knightly Rider of the Knee." A Shortridge High School graduate who later earned a Mechanical Engineering degree from Cornell University, Eitel began his professional career with the Union Trust Company in Indianapolis. He took some time off at the time of his uncle's death in 1916, and acted as Riley's literary executor. He worked with Laurence Chambers at Bobbs-Merrill in the production of the standard biographical edition of Riley's works. In 1955, Eitel presented the Indianapolis Public Library (later Indianapolis Marion County Public Library or IMCPL) with a gift of 100 volumes of Rileyanna.

Eitel also served in the Naval Aviation Service during World War I. After the war, he worked for the Fanstiehl chemical and radio business in Chicago, and later moved to Baltimore where he was employed by Oriole Refrigeration. In the 1950s, he moved to Atlanta, Georgia, where he founded an executive placement service.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection contains the materials donated by Edmund H. Eitel to the Indianapolis Marion County Public Library of his collections of Riley's papers as well as his Riley related research and publications and various personal materials. The Riley portion of the collection includes original correspondence, mainly letters to Riley from various individuals, family and acquaintances regarding personal and professional interests. Correspondents to Riley include T.C. Steele, written while he was studying in Munich, December, 1883, Susannah Tarkington, and correspondence between Riley and his brother John. There also are numerous letters written to Riley while he was wintering in Miami, Florida, 1914-1916. Other Riley correspondents include Young E. Allison, Dr. Thomas Bickerton, Robert Burdette, Bliss Carman, Gertrude Cawein, Edmund Eitel, Elizabeth Eitel, Henry Eitel, Annie Eslinger, Herbert Hammond, Joel Chandler Harris, Charles Holstein, Mrs. Charles Holstein, H. H. Howland, Helen Jackson, Rudyard Kipling, Mary Marriman, J. N. Matthews, Jap Miller, Michael Monohan, Meredith Nicholson, William Lyon Phelps, D. A. Rank, Paul Reynolds, Martha Riley, Walter Rounds, Perry Rule, Howard Saxby, George Smith, John Philip Sousa, Edith Thomas, George Thompson, and R. E. S. Toomey.

Other Riley materials include records and correspondence of his relationship with humorist Edgar Wilson "Bill" Nye (1850-1907?); business records including correspondence and contracts with Bobbs-Merrill, 1902-1916; Charles Scribner's Sons, 1902; and bills and receipts from the Columbia Club and many other Indianapolis businesses relating to Riley's personal finances, 1871-1916. Also covered are records from Riley's lecture tours including bills, receipts, and related materials such as records of expenses and requests for lectures, 1885-1915.

The collection also contains Riley's poetry including handwritten verses, inscribed volumes and general published works, 1877-1914. Also included in the materials are galley and page proofs of Riley's works, some with the author's handwritten corrections. Riley also possessed a musical interest and the collection contains sheet music, song books and other items relating to his verses being set to music, 1887-1916. Other Riley personal materials include invitations to activities, both public and private, 1896-1915, and receipts, correspondence, programs and publications regarding Riley's membership in various clubs and organizations such as the Contemporary Club, J. B. Bond Lyceum and the Indiana Society of Chicago, 1892-1914. Also contained in the collection are letters, poetry and greetings to Riley in honor of his birthdays, 1913-1915, primarily from grade school aged children throughout the United States. There also are Holiday/Christmas and Easter greetings to Riley, and general tributes to the poet in verse, prose and letters, 1882-1916.

There is also a significant number of visual items among the papers including portraits of Riley and his friends and family, personal family pictures, visits and vacation pictures, photographs of celebrations in his honor and photographs from Mexico by C. B. Waite.

Edmund Eitel materials include typed copy of Riley letters, 1869-1916, research notes and manuscripts for the Letters of Riley and the Riley biographical information used in complete works edition. There also are galley and page proofs of Riley's poetry including the nine volume Complete Works, 1913. Additional Eitel research material regarding Riley's biography comprise typed and handwritten notes, stories, correspondence, notecards, indices, rough drafts, and newspaper clippings, which were photocopied onto acid free paper for preservation purposes. Also included is Eitel's correspondence regarding Riley reminiscences, 1913-1915, collections of Riley letters, 1913-1916, and biographical information. There also are copies of articles about Riley in other publications, 1879-1919, and articles by Eitel about Riley, 1914-1919. Eitel's files also contain family correspondence regarding Riley, 1912-1958, including Riley copyright contracts, 1922-1958. The collection also contains Riley and Eitel general family materials including legal papers of Reuben and Andrew Riley, newspaper clippings which also were photocopied onto acid free paper, Edmund Eitel's cash book, 1913-1917, and an assessor's book for Clark County, 1835.

Edmund Eitel correspondents include Birdice Blye, Richard Crowder, Elva Eitel, Henry Fuller, Walter Hurt, George McCutcheon, Mary Powell, Walter Pray, Paul Reynolds, Julia Graydon Sharpe, Evaleen Stein, and Mrs. E. S. L. Thompson.
