BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Ivey Wallens Barnett was born in Earlham, Iowa on February 10, 1879 to Joel and Lecy (Thomas) Barnett. Ivey married Dayse (Daisy) Catterlin on January 21, 1903. Dayse was born August 13, 1877 in Winterset, Iowa. Both Quakers, they wed in Dayse's parents' home and the newlyweds moved to Indiana shortly after for Ivey to attend Purdue University in 1906. Ivey graduated with a degree in Civil Engineering in 1909. After graduation, he became a teacher and later a principal in Whittier, California. Dayse and Ivey had two children, a daughter Marthe Ione who was born in 1906 while Ivey was in school, and Winston who was born in 1917 after the family had moved to California.

It was Ivey's maternal lineage that gave him root in Indiana. Lecy's parents were Charles and Nancy (Moorman) Thomas. Nancy was originally from Rockingham, North Carolina. Her parents, Tarlton and Hannah Moorman, had at least four children: Harriett, Nancy, Henry, and Thomas. The family moved to Newport, Wayne County, Indiana where Nancy met Charles Thomas. They were married on June 8, 1831. Charles worked as a farmer to support their 12 children: Jesse, Sydney, Levi, Peter, Stephen, Mark, Hannah, Moorman, Mary, Daniel, Amanda, and Lecy. Hannah Thomas, the daughter of Charles and Nancy, married Robert Kenworthy, and had four children, including Iona and Tarleton Kenworthy.

Lecy Thomas married Joel Barnett January 2, 1870 in Dallas, Iowa. The pair had two sons. Gerald (Garrod) Olda Barnett, born March 12, 1877, and the above mentioned Ivey Wallens Barnett.

Both of these families were devoted Quakers who are continually referenced in the Hinshaw Index and the Encyclopedia of American Quaker Genealogy.

Martha C. Woody was born on 1 August 1874 to Mahlon Woody and Matilda E. Shaffer. Woody was Dayse Barnett's nurse at the birth of her daughter, Marthe, in Lafayette, Indiana. She was also a family friend to the Barnetts. She died on 3 January 1966.
