BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Martin Akeman was born 5 January 1832 in Ohio. He married his wife Hester in 1857 and they had two children, Charles and Catherine.

On 23 December 1863, when he was 31, he enlisted as a sergeant and was mustered into I Company, 131st Indiana Regiment (13th Cavalry). This regiment was organized during the fall and winter of 1863–64, and was the last cavalry organization formed in Indiana. It was mustered in April 1864, left the state, and marched to Nashville where it was given infantry arms and accouterments. Upon arrival in Nashville they were ordered to Huntsville, Alabama on 31 May for garrison duty. There it engaged in several skirmishes with bands of cavalry and on 1 October held their ground against General Buford's entire command. Half of the companies, including Company I, were sent to Louisville to secure new mounts and equipments for the regiment. They were then sent to Paducah to assist in repelling an attack by General Forrest. Having accomplished that, they went back to Louisville and marched to LaVergne, Tennessee to watch Hood's movements. They were cut off and retired to Murfreesboro where they participated in the battles of Overall's creek, Wilkinson's pike and twelve skirmishes.

Sixty-five men were either killed or wounded during their time in Murfreesboro. Martin Akemen was one of the wounded and died of his wounds 19 December 1864. He is buried in Eden Chapel Cemetery, in Hancock County, Indiana.
