BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

The collections consists of materials from three members of the McNutt family: Paul Vories McNutt (1891–1955), his wife Kathleen Timolat McNutt (1894–1980), and their daughter, Louise M. McNutt (1921–2000).

Paul V. McNutt was born in Franklin, Indiana, but soon moved and was raised in Martinsville, Indiana. He graduated from Indiana University in 1913 and he received his law degree from Harvard in 1916. After practicing law with his father he entered the U.S. Army as an officer near the end of World War I. While serving with the Army in Texas he met Kathleen Timolat whom he soon married. Their daughter, Louise, was born in 1921. After his release from service, McNutt joined the law faculty at IU and became dean of the law school in 1925. McNutt gained political recognition from his involvement with the American Legion arguing for veteran's benefits and serving as Indiana Commander in 1927 and National Commander in 1929. McNutt was elected Governor of Indiana in 1932 and served from 1933–1937. As Governor he streamlined the government and used New Deal legislation to provide jobs for numerous Hoosiers. At this time state law did not allow a governor to serve more than one term in office so for his political loyalty Franklin Roosevelt appointed him High Commissioner of the Philippines. After a shaky start in the position, McNutt rebounded and helped improve the Philippine economy and became quite popular before leaving in 1939. Of note was his and Philippine President Manuel Quezon ability to get the State Department to allow 1,000 Jews per year to enter the country to escape Nazi persecution. That number was raised to 1,200 in 1939. McNutt returned to the United States in 1939 and was appointed head of the Federal Security Agency. There was speculation that McNutt would run for President in 1940 if FDR decided not to seek a third term in office. When Roosevelt did run for a third term, McNutt emerged as one of the leading candidates for Vice-President. Roosevelt rejected the idea and McNutt loyally withdrew his name from nomination. McNutt continued to administrate the FSA until 1945 as well as serving as chairman of the War Manpower Commission from 1942–1945. McNutt served as the first ambassador to the newly created Philippine Republic from 1946–1947. In 1947 he retired from government service and resumed his law practice as well as being involved in several life insurance companies. In 1950 McNutt became chairman of the United Artists Corporation. Paul McNutt died from cancer in 1955.

Kathleen Timolat McNutt was born in Minneapolis, Minnesota but moved with her parents, Harry and Louise Timolat, to Chicago a short time later. Both of her parents came from wealth when her father was with a profitable wax producing business. The Timolats moved to Mexico in 1910 where he opened a wax factory. Kathleen was educated at Mulholland a private finishing school for girls from wealth in San Antonio, Texas. A revolution forced the Timolats to flee Mexico and relocate the factory in San Antonio. Kathleen finished her formal education in San Antonio and went to work for her father as his secretary. A short time later she met Paul McNutt who was stationed in San Antonio with the U. S. Army and they were married in 1918. Kathleen was a devout Christian Scientist and her religious views differed with those of McNutt who was a Methodist. A striking beauty, Kathleen McNutt was known for her charm and social skills and flourished at political and social events. Upon Paul McNutt's death, she felt a great loss and need for companionship so in 1956 she married long time friend and fellow Christian Scientist, Roy Garrett Watson of Boston, Massachusetts. She died in 1980.

Louise M. McNutt was born in Bloomington, Indiana, and was educated at home in her early life in part to her contracting tuberculosis of the spine. Louise attended Tudor Hall while her father served as governor and accompanied her parents when they went to the Philippines. Initially Louise enrolled at Indiana University but transferred to George Washington University in Washington, D.C. where she earned her Bachelors and Masters degrees in Political Science. She spent her career working for the State Department's Far Eastern Division and became an advisor to the United Nations. She passed away in 2000.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection contains the personal material from the three members of the McNutt family.

Paul McNutt's materials represents the largest part of the collection. Included are photographs, newspaper clippings, scrapbooks, and printed materials. The majority of the items focus on the period when he served as High Commissioner of the Philippines, 1937–1939 and continue though his return to the United States and focus on his involvement with 1940 Democratic nomination for President and Vice-President. Also included are materials from his involvement with the American Legion, mostly regarding his Presidency of the organization in 1928–1929, and items from his student days at Indiana University and his military service. There are also photographs and printed materials from McNutt's work with the Federal Security Agency and items relating to his and the agencies involvement with the Second World War. Additionally, there are photos and some letters from McNutt's youth in Martinsville including a letter he wrote to Santa Claus as a child (Box 6, Folder 17.)

Kathleen McNutt's materials includes photographs, letters, and printed items. There also are many newspaper articles about Kathleen among the newspapers clippings including a number of feature stories on her role as the wife of a diplomat and politician. Also contained are family photographs, correspondence, and genealogy of the Timolat Family.

Among Louise McNutt's materials are letters, photographs, scrapbooks, and diaries. Included are diaries from 1935–1947 that include her life as the diplomat's daughter in the Philippines. Correspondence include letters from her parents, her grandparents, and David Boatright, an Army officer and apparent suitor. She also collected scrapbooks of her father's activities in the Philippines, and took many candid shots both in the Philippines and later vacations. There also are items relating to her education at George Washington University and her work in the foreign service.
