NOTES:

HISTORICAL SKETCH

In preparation for the State of Indiana's 100th anniversary celebration in 1916, the Indiana Historical Commission organized local centennial committees throughout the state in 1915. Shortly thereafter John Hampden Holliday, chairman of the Indianapolis local centennial committee, "came upon the notion of organizing a society composed of people who were descendants of the early settlers of Indiana," and the Society of Indiana Pioneers was established on 15 September 1916.

The motto of the Society is "honoring the memory and the work of the pioneers of Indiana." The Society offers four classes of membership, two of which require proof of ancestry. The Society's office is currently located in the Indiana State Library in Indianapolis.
