

The Indiana Historical Society is pleased to announce that our Midwestern Roots 2010: Family History and Genealogy Conference, Migration Then and Now is approved by the Indiana State Library to offer Library Education Units. The conference will be held August 6 and 7 at the Indianapolis Marriott East, with pre-conference activities on August 5 at various locations.

Midwestern Roots 2010 features more than 30 presentations by national and regional experts and covers a range of topics. Multiple registration options are available, so you can plan to attend all three days or just the one day that fits your schedule. The IHS will provide conferees with verification of course completion
